Mother's Day

The United States celebrates Mother's Day on the second Sunday in May. In 1872 Julia Ward Howe called for women to join in support of disarmament and asked for 2 June 1872, to be established as a "Mother's Day for Peace". Her 1870 Appeal to womanhood throughout the world" is sometimes referred to as Mother's Day Proclamation. But Howe's day was not for honoring mothers but for organizing pacifist mothers against war. In the 1880s and 1890s there were several further attempts to establish an American "Mother's Day", but these did not succeed beyond the local level. The current holiday was created by Anna Jarvis in Grafton, West Virginia in 1908 as a day to honor one's mother. Jarvis wanted to accomplish her mother's dream of making a celebration for all mothers, although the idea did not take off until she enlisted the services of wealthy Philadelphia merchant John Wanamaker, who celebrated it on May 8th, 1910 in Bethany Temple Presbyterian Church, Philadelphia, PA of which he was the founder. In a letter to the pastor, she said it was, "our first Mother's Day". Jarvis kept promoting the holiday until President Woodrow Wilson made the day an official national holiday in 1914.

Break Every Chain

There is power in the name of Jesus (x3)

To break every chain, break every chain, break every chain.

To break every chain, break every chain, break every chain.

There's an army rising up (x3)

To break every chain, break every chain, break every chain.

To break every chain, break every chain, break every chain.

I hear the chains falling

AThe Anthem

Hallelujah

You have won the victory

Hallelujah

You have won it all for me

Death could not hold you down

You are the risen King

Seated in Majesty

You are the risen King

Good Work

Part of our discontent often stems from the media image that a “successful” person doesn’t need to work. While it’s true that some independently wealthy folks don’t have to work to earn an income upon which to live, they nonetheless have a job to do. You see, everyone is created for a Divine purpose, regardless of how much money is in their bank account.

Perhaps you have heard it preached or read in Scripture that work resulted from the fall of Adam and Eve in the garden when they ate the forbidden fruit. God tells Adam, “Cursed is the ground for your sake; in toil you shall eat of it all the days of your life. In the sweat of your face you shall eat bread...” (Genesis 3:17, 19) While it’s true that work took on a different meaning after the fall, it’s a mistake to believe that our first parents were with purpose prior to this incident.

From time the time that Adam and Eve were created, it’s been clear that God intended for us to be just like our Creator, productive, fruitful, and invested tasks contributing to His purposes. They were given reign over the garden and enjoyed a maximum level of fulfillment in their jobs before their selfish decision to disobey.

Then the Lord God took the man and put him in the garden of Eden to tend and keep it. Out of the ground the Lord God formed every beast of the field and every bird of the air; and brought them to Adam to see what he would call them. And whatever Adam called each living creature, that was its name.

Departments of Transportation, Agriculture and PA State Police Partner with PA Farm Bureau to Encourage Rural Road Safety

4/16/2013-

Harrisburg – PennDOT Executive Deputy Secretary for Administration Bradley L. Mallory today joined local farmers and officials from the state Department of Agriculture, the Pennsylvania State Police and the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau (PFB) to highlight Rural Roads Safety Week, which runs through April 19.

The event was held at the Furnace Hill Farm in Lebanon to educate motorists about the importance of driving safely around farm equipment on rural roads. The PFB created Rural Roads Safety Week in 2005 to alert drivers that large, slow-moving farm vehicles and equipment regularly share the road with other motorists on rural roads across the state.

“We must all use caution when driving on rural roads, especially in the spring and summer months when farm vehicles are most common on these roadways,” Mallory said. “We should slow down when approaching large farm equipment and ensure that we avoid distractions, obey traffic laws and remain alert while traveling.”

According to PennDOT data, there were 88 crashes involving farm equipment statewide in 2012, with two people losing their lives in those crashes. Overall, there were more than 36,000 crashes on rural roads statewide last year, with 555 fatalities in those crashes. Rural roads are defined as those that pass through municipalities with populations of fewer than 5,000 people.

“We believe many of these accidents can be prevented if farmers and motorists look out for one another on rural roads. If motorists hear our messages and follow safe driving tips, costly accidents can be avoided and lives can be saved,” PFB President Carl T. Shaffer said.

While motorists are reminded to use caution when sharing the road with farm vehicles, farmers are also advised to be courteous to other drivers. Farm vehicle operators are advised to avoid driving on the road during rush hour traffic when possible and to pull off the road to allow motorists by when they can safely do so.

“It’s necessary and legal for farmers to operate equipment on the roadways to get the job done,” said Agriculture Secretary George Greig. “Farmers and motorists need to work together to share the responsibility of keeping our roads safe.”

“The importance of obeying traffic laws on rural roadways is great,” said State Trooper Adam Reed. “Motorists should exhibit the same level of care and caution on these roads as if they were traveling on the interstate. Rural Roads Safety Week is a great reminder for motorists to do just that.”
